This month of September 2010 has arrived with a soothing balm for pained and bruised souls who have suffered greatly under the highly weakening and damaging combination of Venus-Mars-Saturn in Virgo during August 2010. The change began to be felt as Venus entered its own Jyotish sign, Libra, on 1st September 2010, to stay there for an extended period of 4 months. During this 122 day period, which will also include a retrogression of Venus in Libra, lot of positive and happy changes can be expected to happen.

During this period Shukra will become Vakri (retrograde) on 8th October 2010 and it will become direct on 19th November 2010. It will end its stay in Libra on 1st January 2011. The previous transit of Venus in Libra was from 3rd November 2009 to 27th November 2009. The next stay of Shukra in Tula, in 2011, will be from 4th October 2011 to 28th October 2011. Shukra becomes swagrahi in Libra and this airy sign is also the Mooltrikona rashi of Venus.

Venus is the only planet which ends its stay in its Neech rashi by entering its own sign. From debilitation to a swagrahi position. The results of this transition are very surprising and the shift from Virgo to Libra comes with some big changes in life too. The last four days of Venus' transit in Virgo are actually the worst phase of this debilitated movement. Most of the deaths by illness, post operative deaths, accidents, sudden fevers and other health problems are reported in this phase.

But, as soon as Venus shifts to Libra, peace and happiness begin to flow in and the travails and pains of the Virgo transit become non-existent. Smoothness comes in life and progress in family affairs and work also begins. This is generally applicable for all people irrespective of their Moon Signs or ascendants as Venus governs the majority of our day to day affairs, family relations, love, marriage, shopping, traveling and other such small but important things of life.

In business, the industries which will benefit the most from this four month long transit of Venus in Libra are entertainment industry, travel industry, fashion, cosmetics, interior designing and high-end luxury housing, automotive industry including public transport and aviation, and above all, the food and hospitality industry. We can expect to see great advances in the field of film making, public transport and consumer products.

The strong transit of Venus is generally good for buying new vehicles, shopping for luxury goods, entering a new home or throwing a house warming party, celebrating family reunions or other family functions and for getting married. So, people who have been postponing such celebrations must make to plans to enjoy to their hearts in next four months.

Generally, the effect of this transit on the twelve Moon Signs and ascendants will be as follows:
