

Puneet Asks: My DOB is 7th march 1977, TOB is 7:15 am and POB is Kurukshetra, in India. I am wearing a yellow pukhraj (Sapphire) pendant in a chain around my neck. I am also wearing a Panna (Emerald) on the little finger of my right hand and a Shani ring on the middle finger of the same hand. And in left hand's middle finger, I am wearing a Gomed. Do any of these stones conflict with each other? People are giving me quite different opinions about them. Please guide me.

Astrologer Ashutosh: Mr Puneet! On the basis of the placement of planets, the Pisces (Meen) ascendant and the Virgo (Kanya) moon sign, in your horoscope I can say that you are wearing only the Yellow Sapphire (Pukhraj) in a correct manner.

All the other three gemstones are not suitable for you. They are acting against the Yellow Sapphire to create losses for you and due to their negative effects you are not receiving the correct and required positive effects from the Yellow Sapphire too.

So, remove the emerald, Gomedh and the Shani ring immediately. Purify your Yellow Sapphire on next Wednesday evening and wear it again on Thursday morning. Besides the yellow sapphire you should wear a Coral for Mars on the ring finger of right hand and a Pearl or Moonstone for Moon on the little finger of right hand.

And, do ensure that all gems which you wear are only natural, untreated and only of the required weight.
