

Prravit asks: I am wearing a Neelam (Blue Sapphire) and a Panna (Emerald). Recently I have been suggested to wear a Gomed (Hessonite). Will these three gems work together and suit me? Thank you! My DOB is 29th Feb 1975, TOB is 23:51 Hrs and POB is Bangkok, Thailand.

Astrologer Ashutosh: Prravit! You were born under Vrishchik (Scorpio) ascendant and Tula (Libra) moon sign. You are in Saturn mahadasha and Ketu antardasha since 9th April 2013. I hate to say this as you must have spent good amount of money on your gemstones, but you should not wear either a Neelam, or an Emerald and not even a Gomedh.

Neither of these three gemstones are beneficial for you. In fact, they can cause great harm and big losses to your health, personal life and your finances too. So, remove the Neelam and the Panna which you are wearing and also abort the decision to wear a Gomedh.

Instead, you should wear the gemstones which are good, for you for your beneficial planets. These are -

- 1. Sindoori Coral - Wear this gemstone in gold or copper ring on the ring finger of your right hand on Tuesday morning.
- 2. Yellow Sapphire - Jupiter is in a powerful position and in a swagrahi position in your horoscope. Wear this gemstone for receiving its maximum benefits. Wear it on the index finger of right hand in a gold ring on Thursday morning.

When buying these gemstones take 0.9 carats per 10 Kilograms of your body weight for medium quality single stones. If the quality is superior then you can reduce the gem weight by one to two carats too depending on your body weight and the quality of the gemstone.
